

Celebrate National Volunteer Week & Arbor Day with the Hudson River Estuary Program

The NYS DEC's "Hudson River Estuary Trees for Tribs" initiative will be hosting two volunteer bareroot-seedling "potting events" in celebration of this year's National Volunteer Week (April 19-25) and Arbor Day (April 24).

Volunteers will help pot-up bareroot seedlings for the "Hudson River Estuary Trees for Tribs" initiative - a program that offers free native plants to landowners who qualify for stream buffer restoration projects.

WHEN: Friday, April 24th from 9am-4pm
Sunday, April 26th from 9am+

WHERE: The “Berm”, NYSDEC Region III New Paltz

In just two years, the “Hudson River Estuary Trees for Tribs” initiative has been responsible for planting more than 32,000 feet of stream buffers along the Estuary’s tributaries with 12,000 native trees, shrubs, and grasses. Over 70 projects have been completed to date with the help of some 1,200 volunteers and 50 project partners. If you’re interested in a Fall 2009 project, applications are due by August 1st.

Contact info: Kevin Grieser, Riparian Buffer Coordinator
Hudson River Estuary Program

(845) 256-3145

kagriese@gw.dec.state.ny.us

www.dec.ny.gov/lands/43668.html

NYS Department of Environmental Conservation

