

Taylor Pond Wild Forest - Poke-O-Moonshine Mountain

Poke-O-Moonshine Mountain (2,162 feet) - The summit and the fire tower residing there provide 360 degree views of the surrounding area and may be accessed by either of two trails:

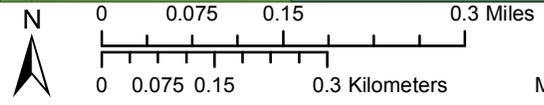

The 1.9-mile Observer's Trail which ascends 1,280 feet from the trailhead to the summit along the route of an old access road used by fire observers. The trail travels through the forest for much of its length and several scenic beaver ponds may be observed along the route.

The 1.8-mile Ranger Trail ascends 1,280 feet from the trailhead in the Poke-O-Moonshine Day Use Area to the summit. Stone steps were installed and portions of the trail rerouted. The rerouted lower half of the trail passes through some interesting rock features.
